AARON BARTLETT, 1799-1873

New York Pioneer

Son of Aaron and Joanna of the Revolution

Father of Solomon, Ransom, Shuler, Loomis, Salicia, Eliza and Russell.

A Foreword.

It has not been my intention to write an extensive, or complete genealogical record of the descendants of Aaron Bartlett. These sketches were started with the sole idea of adding to the scanty information that my children, neices and nephews, had of the Early Bartlett family. As the outline began to take form, the interest of many in the collateral branches of the Bartlett's was aroused and led to a more extended program than at first planned.

In securing family history I have been greatly assisted by the kindness of Mrs. Hiram Lawrence Bartlett of North-hampton, Massachusetts, who has sent me many Bartlett books and pamphlets belonging to her late husband. These have been of inestimable value to me.

While little attention has been paid to the latter generations, information as to them having been obtained by means of correspondence, all material as to the early Bartletts has been taken direct from Town, County, State or United States Government records, Bible records, or publications which are considered as authoritative.

I had not expected to put the Bartlett book in the hands of the public in this crude shape, with its awkward arrangement and its many repetitions, but the demand from many who are anxious to get the information so far obtained leads me to listen to them and place this accumulated data where it can be consulted by those interested while further research is being conducted.

Anyone who is in any way connected with this line, or allied lines, and who wishes to be included, when the more extensive work is compiled is earnestly requested to send in material of their family. Bible records, church and town records, County Biographical and Genealogical Albums, will and deeds and personal manuscripts are the most fertile sources of information. Photostat copies are very easily and cheaply made of them

It may be of interest to the Descendants of Aaron Bartlett to know that his Revolutionary War record has already been established with the Daughters of the American Revolution.

As so many have become confused by the many lines of Bartletts, resulting from twenty-three known immigrant ancestors, I have included a synopsis of some of the early best known Bartletts, as I have found that most of my correspondents believe that they were, in some way, connected with these lines.

I wish also to correct the very prevalent idea of many of the Bartletts that they are descended through the line of Josiah Bartlett, signer of the Declaration of Independence. There are some reasons for their belief that the early generations may have come from the same parental stock, still these connections have not, to the best of my knowledge, as yet been made clear. Thomas, who married Mary, is said to have been a descendant of the forefather of Josiah. This has been a persistent family legend from earliest days.

Thomas Edward Bartlett, in his book "Bartletts" gives a list of the immigrant lines and a short-sketch of information relating to them. I am also greatly indebted to Levi Bartlett's "Sketches of the Bartlett Family" although time has added information, that in one or two instances, has altered some conclusions which the information held at that time seemed to warrant.

Personal history, fact and information are accumulated very slowly and a family history is, in fact, never completed, therefore I am filing the information I have in hand to make it available for the use of those interested and expect some day to publish a more accurate and complete Bartlett Book.

FIDELITY - FIDELITY - IN GOOD TIME

Bartelot Coat-Of-Arms.

The original coat of arms of the Bartelot family was three opened left hand falconer's gloves with gold tassels about the wrist. Crest, a swan; 2nd crest, a castle. We had the old right of keeping swans on the river a right which very few had. The Bartelots have lived here ever since the Conqueror fought at the battle of Poitiers, 1356, and at the Battle of Cressy, 1446; and subscribed handsomely to the funds contributed to defend England against the attack of the Spanish Armada in 1588. The records of the church are compiled from John Bartelot, who was born in 1300, down to the present date. There are some very handsome coats of arms in the windows bearing the family names of those with whom they married; also old memorial windows of Stopham and Bartelot, the date of the oldest figures being 1273.

In John Fox's Book of Martyrs, printed in 1610, Richard, Robert, Sarah and Isabel Bartlett are mentioned as Protestant martyrs, persecuted by John Longland, a popeish bishop of the diocese of Lincoln, in the year 1521.

Temple in his history of North Brookfield says:
Benjamin and Jehoida Bartlett came to North Brookfield in 1700. They were the sons of Benjamin and Deborah of Windsor." One page 157 he says; "The newcomers this year, 1698, were Benjamin and Jehoida Bartlett, sons of Benjamin and Deborah of Windsor."

It seems from the above that it is safe to assume that the Benjamin who was the father of Mary, the first child whose birth was recorded in Brookfield, was the Benjamin referred to in the above, as there would hardly have been two of the same name in North Brookfield at that early date. Therefore I have carried out the line of ancestry as follows;

Newbury-Brookfield Bartletts.

Adoniram Bartlett (Thomas I) was born Sept. 16, 1755, died Sept. 25, 1805 in W. Brookfield, Mass. He settled in Conway Mass about 1788, married Feb. 4th, 1761 Miriam Marsh who was born Jan. 12, 1745, died Jan. 27, 1822.

Their children born in Brookfield differ from the list as given by Levi Bartlett in Sketches of the Bartlett Family in some respects. The first form as given in the town records of Brookfield, Temples Statistics are as follows:

Aaron baptised July 28, 1762.
Judathan baptised Dec. 22, 1765.
Miriam           "           Oct. 20, 1765.
Joseph          "           Aug. 23, 1767.

Bartletts list is as follows:

Amos, born May 28, 1762, died Dec. 11, 1834.
Jedathan born Dec. 15, 1763, died Oct. 21, 1845.
Miriam born Oct. 14, 1765, died Sept. 22, 1811.
Josiah born Aug. 11, 1767, died Oct. 18, 1847.
Calvin born May 29, 1770, died Apr. 28, 1853.
Sarah born Feb. 27, 1772, died July 14, 1854.
Samuel born Apr. 15, 1774, Died May 19, 1845.
Hannah born Apr. 15, 1774, died Sept. 3, 1842.
Lydia born Feb. 29, 1776, died Sept. 13, 1777.
Lydia born July 27, 1778, died Aug. 15, 1803.
Luther born May 29, 1782, died Jan. 16, 1855.
Adoniram born Sept. 12, 1785, died Aug. 6, 1862.

Luther (Adoniram 2. Thomas I) was born in W. Brookfield. He was a fine citizen, noted for his integrity and powers of reasoning, a great student of the Bible and a life long Democrat according to Levi Bartlett. Pg. 191. He married Anna Nims and had nine children all of whom were born in Conway, Massachusetts: Lyman, Franklin; Hulia Elma, born Sept. 21, 1810, died Jan. 24, 1815; Edwin; Julia Elma 2nd; Luther; Alfred, born March 28, 1819, died April 14, 1825; Dares, born Aug. 15, 1821, went to Illinois and then to California where he died December 22, 1849; Alfred 2nd.

Adoniram Bartlett (Thomas I) was the son of Thomas and Mary (Bartlett) Bartlett. Mary was daughter of Benjamin Bartlett of Brookfield, Massachusetts.

Northampton people mostly from Windsor and Dorchester.

In the French and Indian attack in 1704, the women and children were sent to Northampton, Hadley and Hatfield.
In an attack on Deerfield the Indians took 111 captives.
"On May 13th the French sent a force of 20 Canadians and 50 Indians to surprise Ft. Lascomock (at N.E. end of Mt.
Tom in Northampton). They captured the whole garrison, being about 37. The English pursueing of them caused them to knock all the captives on the head, save 5 or 6.
Seven of those knocked on the head recovered, the rest died. Samuel Bartlett was wounded. Page 166.

Bartlett Family

Stephen Jennings.

Stephen Jennings(1) was of Hatfield, Mass. 1677. Freeman, 1690. Bought, April 15, 1693, 104 acres. Came to America in 1695-6. Married May 15, 1677, Hannah Gillett, widow of Samuel. She was the daughter of John Dickinson of Hadley.

She with two of her Gillett children, was taken captive by the Indians the same year, (1677) and on Sept. 19th was taken to Canada. On Oct. 24th her husband and Benjamin Wait, whose wife and three children were also taken prisoners started for Canada. After a perilous journey via Albany they reached Sorell in January. After negotiations they left Sorell with all prisoners May 2nd, 1678, arriving in Albany May 22, Kinderhook, May 27, where they found men and horses sent from Hatfield; rode through the woods to Westfield, and all arrived safely in Hatfield, after an absence of over eight months. The cost of redemption was over 200 Pounds raised by contribution by the towns.

1. Stephen and Hannah had Captivity, born in Canada May 14, 1678. She married Abijah Bartlett who was afterwards killed by the Indians.

2. Captivity born May 14, 1678.

2. Stephen born 1680.

2. Joseph born 1682.

2. Sarah born 1684

2. Benjamin Killed by the Indians in 1710.

2. John Lived in Brookfield 1720.

2. Jonathan born 1692.

2. Ebenezer

Stephen (2) had grants of land in Brookfield in 1710 when he was killed by the Indians, leaving children,

John born 1705

Ebenezer born 1708.

Joseph (2) lived on the homestead and married Mary Rich, widow of Thomas. Stephen was living in 1751. Had children.

3. Sarah

3. Martha born 1716

3. Joseph

3. Leah born 1731

3. Mary born 1707

3. Olive born 1736

3. Hannah born 1709

3. Jonathan born 1738

3. Anna born 1711

3. Ruth born 1740.

Jennings Continued. . .

3. Jonathan Jennings born 1682, married first Joanna, second Ester. Joanna died 1727. He had one or more children by his first wife. The page in the Register in the Town Clerks Office is torn and all the names of his children are torn off but the following dates remain 1729, 1733, 1737, 1740, 1742. As the date of the birth of Sarah who married Joseph Bartlett is Dec. 22, 1742 ( the double dating 2/3 being used at this time ) this would correspond with the date of Jonathan's child. Also it has been impossible to find a corresponding date of a Sarah, daughter of any of Jonathans brothers, the supposition is that Sarah was a daughter of Jonathan.

He held 225 acres of land in Brookfield. Died July 19, 1754.

Ebenezer born 1694, held 66 acres of land in Brookfield.

Joseph and Sarah (Jennings) Bartlett were Patriots in the truest sense of the word and demonstrated it by giving their five sons to the Army of the Revolution. Jonathan became a Sergeant, Aaron, Corporal, Joshau, Ensign and Asa and Joseph were privates through most of the war.

The Brookfield Bartletts were well represented during the time of the Revolution as almost without exception, the men of the many branches of the descendants of Thomas and of Benjamin enlisted at the beginning of the War, many of them enlisting for the duration of the war.

Mathew, a son of Thomas and brother of Joseph, had a son Wyman who was born April 15, 1754. Wyman was drafted into the army of the Revolutionary service; but the records say, "Being of non-age, his father went in his stead, was taken sick, returned home and died one month afterward." Wyman also saw service in the Revolutionary war. viz;

Wyman Bartlett, Brookfield, Private Capt. Jonathan Warner's Regt. which marched on the alarm of April 19, 1775. Service 9 days, reported enlisted in the Army.

Wyman Bartlett, Private Capt. John Bannisters Co., Col. Job Cushing's Regt.; enlisted Sept. 7, 1777, service three months, 2 days at the Northward.

I have inquired for the record of marriage of Aaron Bartlett and Joanna Perkins. The record of the Rev. Mr. Hill is missing. Henry Alward, Town Clerk. 1761 to Nov. 1777.

I, of Norwich, Hampshire Co. Joanna is my sister. I well remember when she was married to said Aaron Bartlett. They were published both in Amherst and in Leverett, but, for the cause of there not being a settled minister in Leverett, they went to Shutesbury to be married, and the service was performed by the Rev. Mr. Hill of Shutesbury.

Mr. J. E. Bartlett,
Eaton Rapids, Mich.

Dear Sir:

You are advised that it appears from the papers in the Revolutionary War pension claim, W. 13630, that Aaron Bartlett, or Bartlet, enlisted January 1, 1776, and served for one year in Captain Aaron Haynes' Company, Colonel Asa Whitcomb's Massachusetts Regiment.

He enlisted in 1780, and served for nine months in Captain Smith's Company, Colonel Calvin Smith' Massachusetts Regiment and was discharged December 5, 1780, at West Point, New York. It is not stated whether he served in the Lexington Alarm.

He was allowed pension on his application executed April 20, 1818, at which time he was a resident of Eaton, Madison County, New York, and was aged sixty-six.

He died April 22, 1823.

The soldier married November 25, 1775, at Shutesbury, Massachusetts, Joanna Perkins, who was born August 10, 1755. They were married by the Reverend Mr. Hill. The soldier was then of Leverett, Mass., and she of Amherst, Mass.

She was allowed pension on her application executed March 29, 1837, while a resident of Eaton, Madison County, New York.

They had seven children:- Benjamin, the eldest, in 1839 was aged between sixty and sixty-two years: Abigail, Aaron, Joanna: a child who died in infancy: Sally, and Nancy, who was born in March 1788, and married Simpson, first name not given.

Very truly yours,

E. W. Morgan
Acting Commissioner.

Copy of letter to Mrs. J. E. Bartlett.

General Accounting Office
Washington.

Mrs. James E. Bartlett.

In reply to your letter of January 29th, 1931, wherein you request information concerning Joanna Bartlett, a pensioner of the Revolutionary War, certificate # 5162, a New York agency, you are advised that the pensioner died January 17, 1844, in Java, Wyoming County, New York, and left surviving the following named children: Benjamin, Aaron, Perkins and Ira Bartlett, Joanna Healy and Nancy Simpson.

The arrears of pension due the deceased pensioner at the date of death were paid to James Healy, Administrator for the children by Treasury Settlement approved July 10, 1848.

For the Comptroller General of the United States.

Respectfully,

W.W. Richardson.

Bartlett, Aaron (Aaron 3. Joseph 2. Thomas 1.)

Aaron Bartlett was born in Mass. probably Shutesburg as his father Aaron (3) owned land there until the early part of the 1800s. He also lived in Pelham for a time. However he came to Eaton, Madison Co. N.Y. early in 1800. A History of Madison Co. says Joshua Leland came from Sherburne Mass. With him came Thomas Lombard and Aaron Bartlett from Hampton Co. Mass. The records of the Lombard family date back to 1803 in Morrisville, the County seat of Madison Co.

The children of the two families migrated together to Chataqua Co. Among those mentioned were Ira and Aaron Jr. Bartlett.

Smiths History.

Young Aaron, As he was known, was of the pioneer type and seldom remained long in one place, though he spent the most of his life in the Western part of New York state and adjacent portions of Pennsylvania. He was a shoemaker among other trades, and the shop in which he plied his trade in Poland N.Y. can still be seen. It is now used as a woodshed on the rear of the house which was his home. The place is still in a good state of preservation. Is a goodsized house about the center of the village on the north side of the street. On the east end is an extension with an arched opening in place on the door which was the entrance to his shop.

He was a very jovial character, original and in some ways eccentric. It is said that he never, if it could be avoided, wore a coat, and that he danced on the court house steps, Warren, Pa. on his 94th birthday. This is the statement of his grand-daughter, Mrs. Lottie S. Costello.

Aaron Bartlett was the first postmaster of Cherry Creek, N.Y. He died at the home of his son Russel in Conewango Pa. (a suburb of Warren) March 8, 1873. at the age of 94 years, two months, and 24 days.

Sol, or Saul, as he was often called, was one of the wealthiest men in the vicinity of Lottsville, Pa. in or about 1860 when he built the hotel. Ben Webber of Columbus, was a cousin of Sols. Sol owned 100 acres of timber near Union City and other property, but when he became old speculated in oil stock and lost a great deal. After Sol's death a local man took Sol's farm and claimed he would settle Sol's debts but kept the farm until he was able to dispose of it, also other properties, but failed to make an accounting of them.

Sol was known as a shrewd man and a money maker, his hotel was patronized by men and merchants going to the oil fields in Pennsylvania.

The hotel was burned in 1875, his mothers Bible burned at the same time. He then moved to a little house now owned and occupied by Nathaniel Smith, it has been moved and attached to Ransom Bartlett's old store which was on the corner toward the cemetery. Miss Jennie Woodburn of Lottsville has a picture of Sol Bartletts Hotel.

Russell Bartlett came from Madison County to Lottsville, Pa., at the time that the Indian troubles were at their height. He told of following a prairie schooner all the way and of stopping from time to time to make peace with the Indians they encountered. Youngs History of Chataugua County, Page 291, says that among the early tailors was Russell Bartlett, but while he was in Warren, Pa., where he lived many years, he owned and managed a mens clothing store. He was a man of considerable wealth and standing in the community.

After the death of his father (Aaron 4) Russell, with his wife Sarah and sons Henry and Will went West. Russell lived and died in Salt Lake City, while Henry and Will went to Montana. Henry Bartlett finally moved to Salt Lake City and owned the Maxim Hotel. Will was an expert oil well operator. While Henry was in Montana he operated the Bee-Hive store and Puntty Restaurant. Will had oil wells in Brigham, Utah, and Los Angeles, California. Henry was all his life a liberal, benevolent, christian man. His father died at the age of 93, in 1910, and after his death Henry took his step-mother each winter to California where it is reported she died.

Lawrence Shuler Bartlett was born in Madison County, N. Y. and went west to Chataugua County with his brothers and father and several others who migrated. Among this number were Ira Bartlett and Daniel Lombard and his sister Margaret. After his marriage Shuler moved to Ellington and then to Waterboro on the Conewange River, here for a number of years he owned the hotel.

In 1805, Dr. Thomas Kennedy of Meadville, built the first saw-mill, he bought three thousand acres of pine, cut the timber and floated the boards down the Alleghany River to the Ohio River and to Cincinnati, St. Louis and New Orleans. The boards for rafting down the Conawanga, from Kennedy, Poland and Jamestown were piled ten to twenty feet high in 12 by 16 feet squares, each layer crossing the preceding layer. There was cherry and oak as well as some other varieties.

The mill purchased logs of the farmers by the hundred logs, 200 feet to the log was the estimated quantity. Randolph logs were floated down the Little Conawanga. Shuler Bartlett helped run these rafts from the Conawanga to St. Louis, returning to Chicago by foot and from there by boat, sailing vessels, to Buffalo or Detroit. Chicago was then but a fishing village. Later Shuler moved to Michigan and operated in pine timber lands, manufactured shingles, had several farms and city properties and became "well to do".

Lawrence Shuler Bartlett.

Shuler Bartlett and his son both came to Michigan in 1850. They went to Huron County which had a water power mill owned by John and Allen Daggett, which they built in 1838 at Rock Falls. John Hopson located at Sand Beach in 1858. He lumbered with the Daggetts for a while then they all sold out to Henry Whitcomb. The lumber was floated out to schooners and loaded. Mr. Whitcomb brought the first goods ever offered for sale in the County. Mr. Hopson had the first wagon and yoke of steers at Sand Beach.

The Frenches were early settlers; the marriage of Mary Ann French to Duncan McCart being the first wedding in Huron County. Allen Daggetts daughter was the first child born. White Rock was settled by a Mr. Smith, in 1847.

Provisions in the early days were brought in by boats. When Byron Bartlett and his son Charles first landed in Forestville there were no roads in Huron County, Indian trails being the nearest thing to it, so there was no travel on land but up and down the lake in little boats in summer and on ice by sleigh in winter. When provisions were brought in by a pioneer they usually consisted of a barrel of flour and a barrel of whiskey and a high time was had by all until the barrel of whiskey was gone, which was long before the flour was used.

A man by the name of Crane ran a counterfeiting business in his log cabin and made Mexican dollars and some bills, but he was not molested by the pioneers. There were no laws and no thought was given to them.

Grindstone City received its name from Capt. Geer who took up Government land and quarried flag stones which he sold to Detroit and they were used to pave Jefferson and Woodward Aves.

Lawrence Shuler Bartlett.

Sand Beach, Michigan.

The Indians were everywhere; some Chippewas and some Sebewaing, after whom the town of Sebewain was named. They were friendly. Shuler Bartlett was a successful Indian trader, the Indians liked him and sold him their last camping ground of 80 acres when they left the County and moved into the then wilds of Northern Mich. This 80 acres was located on the ridge, about one mile north of Sand Beach and seven miles west, in Seigle township. When Shuler Bartlett went to Siegle there was but one family living on the Ridge, the Snizers, they were the first settlers.

Many fugitives from justice found refuge in Huron County in the woods and hundreds came from Canada, fleeing to Michigan during the Canadian Reform Rebellion, or movement.

The Bartletts engaged in shingle weaving. These shingles were sent to Detroit and brought good prices.

Lawrence Shuler Bartlett was born at Sherburne, Chanango County, N. Y. May 11, 1814, died at his home in Harbor Beach (Sand Beach) Michigan, and is buried in the old cemetery south of the village and near the site of the old town of Rock Falls.

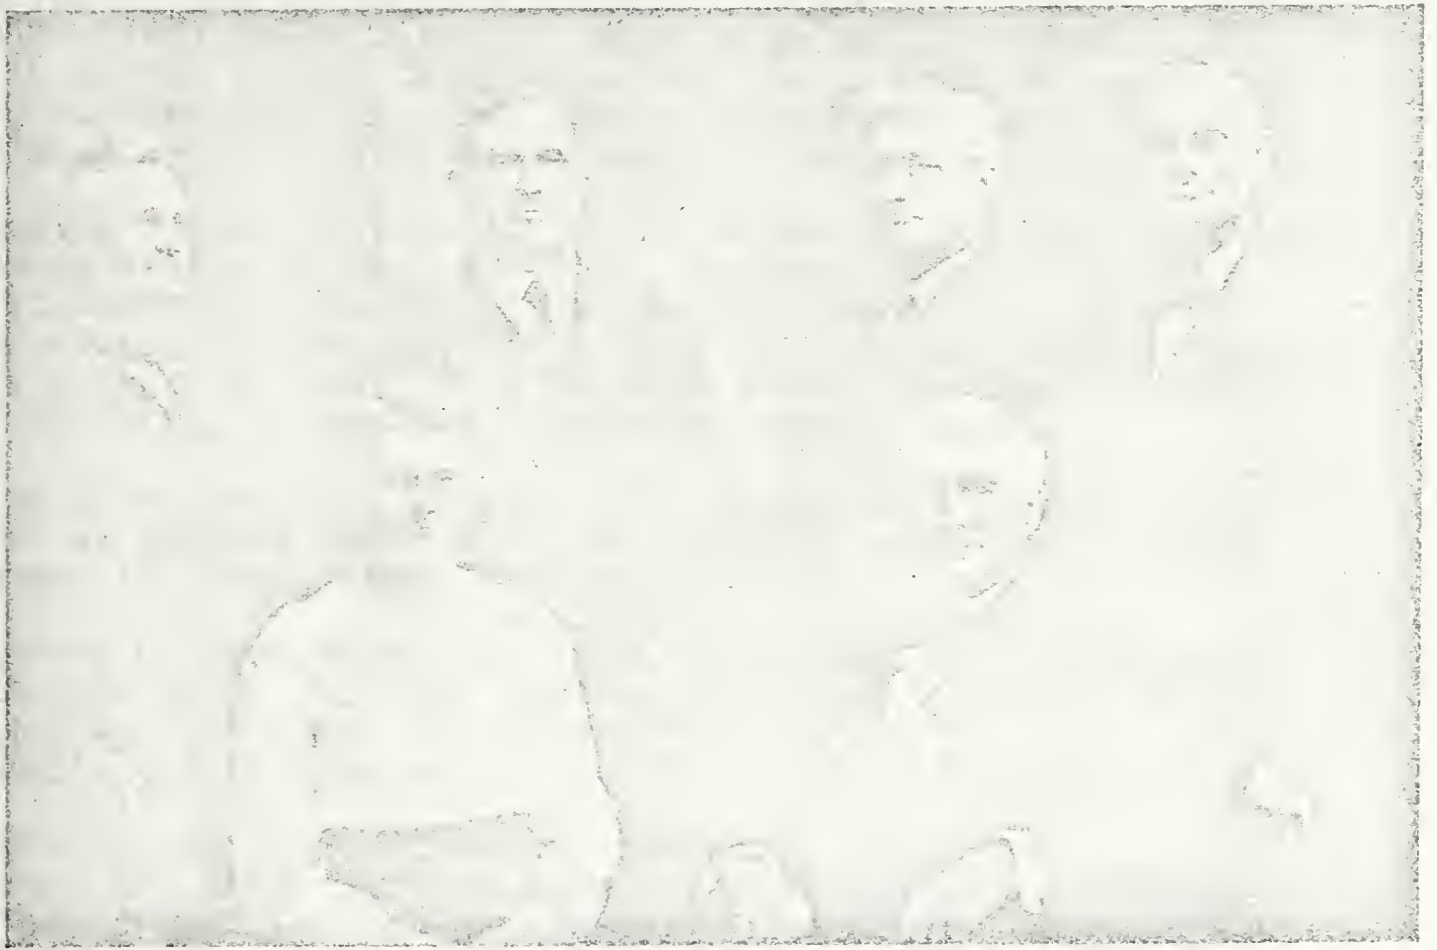

Julia Grover Bartlett was born in Cherry Creek, N. Y. April 3, 1822. She died at the home of her son Rev. Seth Bartlett and is buried in the cemetery in Cherry Creek where her father Seth Grover and her mother Fanny Grover are buried.

Charles Bartlett (Byron 6, Lawrence Shuler 5, Aaron 4.)

Charles Bartlett tells of the early days in Michigan, in the pioneer times in Huron County. At one time the Indians came to the house when his brother Will was only three days old, Jan. 4, 1867. His mother and the baby were lying in bed in the cabin when the door opened and seven drunken Indians pushed their way in.

The Indians demanded "bisch" (water), after this they demanded food. "Bye" gave them a large dish of pork and beans, the combination of the liquor and beans made them sick and they thought Bye had poisoned them. Sam Thompson was the Chief and Jake was the medicine man. Chief Sam became ugly and Bye tiring of their company about midnight grabbed Jake by the collar of his coat and seat of his trousers and threw him out and the others followed. Those present were the sick wife, Byron, the children and Wright Bartlett who was then a young man about 19 years old. The Indians were afraid of Bye who was a large husky man and they did not return.

At the time of the fire of 1871 the house "Bye" was living in was the only one left standing in the village. Grandfather Shuler and Seth were watching the fire. Grandfather Shuler realized that the town would be burned and had all the women and children taken to the "Point", a projection of land in Lake Huron, in front of Byron's home. A barrel of cracker was secured from Durants store at Center Harbor and taken with the family to the point in the lake. In a short time Center Harbor town, mill, Durant's store, the school house, etc. were all burned and the town was never rebuilt.

Miss Pamela Ellwood, later the wife of Wright Bartlett had been the school teacher of Center Harbor. The school house was burned, also the home of Horace Osterhout, the uncle of Pamela Ellwood, at whose home she had been living while teaching in Center Harbor.

Ransom Bartlett and his wife bought of John J. Lott and wife in 1855 land near Lottsville, Pa. The deed is recorded in the courthouse in Warren. He also owned a store and operated it in Lottsville which is still standing, July 1930. He also practiced the trade of shoe-making at times. In 1863 he moved his family to Bluffton, Ohio where he opened a shoe store. In 1864 he sold the store and moved to Eau Claire, Wis., on a farm.

While here he took his family and drove, with his oxen and wagon ninety miles to Chippewa River to the maple groves and made 600# of sugar and a barrel of syrup. He returned to Bluffton in 1868 and opened a hardware store.

He then went to Sand Beach, now Harbor Beach, Michigan, where he built a store and a home. There were only two buildings in Sand Beach when Ransom, "Rant", as he was known, built his store. He also owned a block of land which he subdivided and sold as lots, Bartlett Street of Harbor Beach runs through this property.

Genesis--Early County Divisions.

1771 the Province of New York included what is now Vermont, divided into counties of Albany, Cumberland, Dutchess, Kings, New York, Orange, Queens, Richmond, Suffolk, Ulster Westchester. In 1772 Charlotte was set off, it was the west half of Vermont and included what is now Clinton, Essex, Franklin and Washington Counties.

Tryon was changed to Montgomery, Herkimer, and Otsego in 1784. All west of Lake Seneca as Ontario County in 1789.

In 1791 Hamilton and Tioga Counties were formed, in 1797 Hamilton was put back in Montgomery county and was again set off in 1817. Montgomery was divided into Alleghany, Broome, Cattaraugus, Cayuga, Chataqua, Chemung, Chenango, Delaware, Erie, Essex, Franklin, Fulton, Genesee, Hamilton, Herkimer, Jefferson, Lewis, Livingston, Madison, Monroe, Niagara, Oneida, Onondago, Orleans, Oswego, Otsego, Wyoming, St. Lawrence, Schoharie, Scuyler, Seneca, Steuben, Tioga, Wayne and Yates.

Sherburne was organized in 1801. <sup>71</sup> Smyrna was taken from Shurburne in 1808, the original name of Stafford was changed to Sherburne the same year. Stonington, Ct., contributed most of the settlers, also the Vermont sufferers. The Rhode Island census in 1810 was 520, in 1814 it was 2607.

The first hotel in Smyrna was kept by Samuel Hall.

Previous to Chenango County in 1798 the whole of Madison County and all that part of Chenango County lying north of the south line of Columbus, Sherburne, Smyrna etc. was embraced in Herkimer County, the remaining part of Chenango County was in Tioga County.

Genesee County was divided in 1808 into counties of Genesee, Niagara, Cattaraugus and Chataqua.

Pomfret was composed of Cherry Creek, Ellington, Poland, Sheridan and others. Sheridan was settled in 1826 by Francis Webber and others.

Wyoming Valley was settled by many from Salem, Ct. Nathaniel Gray was the leader of a migration from Sharon, Ct. and Richmond, Berkshire Co., Mass. to Sherburne, N. Y. He then led a company to the Valley of the Chenango. Sherburne original inhabitants were mostly from Kent, Ct.

Chenango County was set off in 1790, in 1804 Oneida was cut off from Chenango, in 1806 Madison County was set off from Chenango.

Land grants of 100 acres were set out by the Federal government and grants of 500 acres by the State of N.Y. for its soldiers in the Rev. War. These grants from the government were free for all soldiers of the Revolution and Aaron Bartlett was undoubtedly attracted by this free land and emigrated, with his soldier friends, from Hampshire County, Mass. to Eaton, Madison County, N. Y. early in the 1800's.

Frederick L. Bartlett, a well-to-do farmer of Vinland township, Winnebago, county, has been an honored resident for well nigh half a century, is a native of Massachusetts, born September 30, 1822 in Hampshire County of good Puritan stock.

Asa Bartlett, father of our subject, came to the then territory of Wisconsin in 1845, locating in Walworth County first, then he moved to Winnebago County, settling definitely in Vinland township. He was a wheelwright and wagon-maker by trade. In Massachusetts he married Miss. Electa Fease, six children were born to them. Mary, born Feb. 26, 1821, married Samuel Pratt, and died Dec. 13, 1893; Frederick L. is the subject of this sketch; Rhoda Sophia born Oct. 19, 1824, died March 20, 1883; Harriet Sophronia, born October 23, 1826, is the widow of Aretus Crittenden, and resides in Vinland township, Winnebago County; Charles Henry, born March 1, 1829, resides in Humbolt County, Iowa, (he served in the Federal army during the war of the Rebellion and was severely wounded in the Battle of Gettysburg); Samuel Austin, born December 5, 1831, died in Ironton, Mo., October 12, 1862, from hardships endured while serving his country in the Civil War. The father died in Vinland township Winnebago, County, February 18, 1854, the mother in Granby, Mass., September 30, 1841.

In 1845, Frederick L. Bartlett migrated to Wisconsin and locating in Fond Du Lac, erected the first blacksmith shop in town. In 1846 he had purchased 200 acres of land in Vinland Township, building thereon a frame dwelling house and a blacksmith shop, which are still standing on the farm. Here he has since made his home, his was the first blacksmith shop in this section of the county.

On June 22, 1848, Mar. Bartlett was married at Fond Du Lac to Miss Elizabeth Marilla Wilson, who was born October 13, 1828 at Whitesboro, Oneida County, N. Y., daughter of Archibald S. and Marilla (Stoddard) Wilson. No children have been born to this union. Our worthy subject and his amiable life partner are members of the Presbyterian Church and he is a Republican, he has served his township as supervisor and treasurer and as a clerk of the school board. He is a leading citizen of Vinland Township, honored and respected by all who know him.

New England Bartletts.

Richard Bartlett, with his two sons and a daughter, and his brothers John and Thomas, came from England to New England as early as 1635. The three brothers were probably sons of Edmund Bartelot of Ernely, Sussex County, England, who was a descendant of Adam Bartelot, the esquire of Brian, a knight who came from Normandy to England with William the Conqueror.

Richard, a descendant of Adam Bartelot and heir to the estate of Stephan, died in Tournay, France, in the year 1518, leaving four sons; William, the eldest, succeeded to his father's estate; and Edmund another son, had a landed estate in Ernely. Edmund had three sons: Edmund, who succeeded to his estate; and Richard, John and Thomas who left Ernely in 1634.

Thomas Bartlett settled in Watertown, and was known as Ensign Thomas. He had several daughters, but no sons. We are told by Coffin, that "Richard and John settled in Newby, Mass., at or around Bartletts Cove, opposite Amesbury Ferry, John was made a freeman in 1637. His wife's name was Joan, and they had one son, named John. John Sen., died April 13, 1678. His wife Joan died Feb. 5, 1679. John, their son, married Sara, daughter of John Knight. Their children were: Gideon; and Mary, who died young.

Richard Bartlett, we are told, was a shoemaker and a leading churchman. In his will his sons Richard, Christopher and John are mentioned; also his daughter, Joanna Titcomb, and her three daughters. He died May 23, 1647.

Richard Bartlett, Jr., was a Representative to the General Court in 1679, '80, '81, and '84. He resided at Oldtown Hill, afterwards at Bartlett's Cove. He married Abigail -----, their children were: Samuel, Richard, Thomas, Abigail, John, Hannah and Rebecca. Richard Bartlett died in 1698, aged 77 years. His wife died March 3, 1687.

Samuel, son of Richard Bartlett, Jr., married Elizabeth, daughter of William and Elizabeth (Stevens) Titcomb of Newbury. Their children were: Elizabeth, Abigail, Samuel, Sara, Richard, Thomas, Tirzah and Elizabeth. Samuel died May 15, 1732. His wife Elizabeth died Aug. 26, 1690.

Richard, son of Richard Jr., born Feb. 21, 1649, married Hannah Emery. Their children were: Hannah, Richard, John, Samuel, Daniel, Joseph, a second Samuel, Stephen, Thomas and Mary.

Thomas, son of Richard Bartlett Jr., born Sept. 7, 1650, married Tirzah, daughter of William and Elizabeth (Stevens) Titcomb. Their children were: Elizabeth, who died young; and Tirzah. Thomas Bartlett died April 6, 1689.

Joseph, the fifth son of Richard and Hannah (Emery) Bartlett, was born Nov. 8, 1686. During the Indian depredations in Haverhill he was stationed at Capt. Simon Wainwright's house, and at the massacre of Aug. 29, 1708 was captured by the Indians and taken to Canada. He finally escaped and reached Newbury, after a captivity of four years. After his return the General Court ordered that the sum of twenty pounds and fifteen shillings be allowed him as he was in her majesty's service when captured. He settled on a farm in Newton, N. H. He was justice of peace and deacon of the church. He married, first, ----- Tewksbury; second, ----- Hoyt. He had four sons and six daughters, all by his second wife.

Josiah Bartlett, M.D., son of Stephen, the seventh son of Richard and Hannah (Emery) Bartlett, was born in Amesbury, Mass., Nov. 21, 1729. After an imperfect medical education he began the practice of medicine in Kingston, N. H., and soon became eminent. In 1765, and annually until the Revolution he was chosen to the Legislature. He was a delegate to Congress in 1775 and 1776, he was the first to give his vote for the Declaration of Independence and its first signer after the president. He was appointed Chief Justice of the Court of Common Pleas in 1779, a Justice of the Superior Court in 1784 and Chief Justice in 1788. He was an active member of the convention called to adopt the Federal Constitution. He was three years President of the State, and under the new Constitution, Governor. He was also President of the New Hampshire Medical Society, which he was chiefly instrumental in founding. He received an honorary degree of M.D. from Dartmouth College. He was always a patron of learning, and a friend to the learned man. He married Mary, daughter of Deacon Joseph Bartlett. He died May 11, 1795. His son Josiah was a physician of extensive practice.

William Bartlett, a grandson of Thomas, the eighth son of Richard and Hannah (Emery) Bartlett, was born in Newburyport, Jan. 31, 1748. Having acquired great wealth by mercantile enterprise, he employed it in assisting the needy, and especially in advancing the cause of religion and morals. The temperance reformation, foreign missions and the gratuitous education of young men for the ministry, were especial objects of his munificence. He gave $50,000 toward the founding of the Theological Seminary at Andover, Mass.; $25,000 to endow a professorship of sacred rhetoric; and contributed largely to the founding of another professorship. He built the chapel which was named Bartlett Chapel in his honor; he also built one of the larger halls and two of the professor's houses. It is said that no small portion of the select and valuable library of that institution was given by him. At his death he bequeathed $50,000 to the seminary. He was a man of iron frame as well as nerve and lived to the advanced age of ninety-three.

THE ENGLISH BARTLETTS.

The Bartelot estate in Stopham, England, at Pullborough is a large one, some seven or eight thousand acres. The house is a large three-story stone building, 150 feet or more long. The farming is on a large scale and everything is well kept.

From London to Pullborough station by rail is two hours and fifteen minutes. The distance from the station to Col. Bartelot's mansion is about three-fourths of a mile. In going from the station to his residence, the river Arun is crossed by a stone bridge built by the family in 1300.

On the stone floor of the old Norman church, built by the family in the thirteenth century, are marble slabs with inlaid figures with a regular succession of Bartelots inscriptions, names and dates, from John Bartelot, who died in 1458 down to Col. George Bartelot, who died Nov. 28, 1872, aged 84 years (the father of Col. Walter Bartelot). Here there is no mistake or sham, for, while scores of families of past nobility have run out over and over, the Bartelot family have steadily held possession of the original grant (with large additions) for eight hundred years, from Adam Bartelot, the progenitor of the family, down to the present representative, and an accurate pedigree has been kept of the line from 1069 down to the present time.

The original grant from King William to Adam Bartelot in 1066 was a landed estate which could neither be sold, given away, or pass out of the family.-----Information on the English Bartletts is by Levi Bartlett.

The Bartelots have been members of Parliament for the county from earliest times. John Bartelot had one crest, --the castle-- given him by Edward, the Black Prince, for taking the castle of Fontenoy in France, in command of Sussex men.

The Pilgrims.
Plymouth Rock Bartletts.

Robert Bartlett, the earliest settler of the name in New England came to Plymouth in the ship Ann in July, 1623. He married Mary, daughter of Richard Warren in 1628. She came to Plymouth with her father in the Mayflower in 1620.

Richard Warren was one of the signers of the Mayflower compact and one of the first families of Plymouth.

Robert settled on a farm near Plymouth. A stone monument by the side of the road to South Plymouth, or "Manomet" marks the site of the Robert Bartlett farm (1930). This was the first settlement outside of Plymouth, in 1751 it became a separate district and Joseph Bartlett, son of Robert, was the first clerk. A monument on top of Plymouth Rock Burial hill marks the grave of Joseph Bartlett.

The earliest Pilgrim cemetery at Plymouth Rock contains the known graves of one hundred twenty eight Bartletts.

Robert's sons were, Benjamin and Joseph. His daughters Rebecca, Mary, Sarah, Elizabeth, Lydia and Mercy.

Benjamin, son of Robert settled in Duxbury, married Sarah, daughter of Love Brewster, had, Benjamin, Samuel, Icabod, Ebenezer and Rebecca.

Joseph, son of Robert, resided in Plymouth, had Robert, Joseph, Benjamin, Elnathan, Mary, Hannah and Lydia.

The Quaker Bartletts.

John Bartlett, son of John and Sarah, his wife born at Weymouth, Mass., Feb. 11, 1666. The family soon moved to Mendon.

At a town meeting Oct. 22, 1730, it was voted to provide "a Barrell of Ruhm" toward raising the new meeting house-- John Bartlett was given the contract to build the ministers house--Nov. 14, 1681 it was voted to pay a note for 16 pounds "due to John Bartlett", one half in Indian corn, att two shillings a bushel, the other half in pork att 2 pence a pound"

The town of Mendon was burned by the Indians during King Phillips War and the Bartletts were next found in Rhode Island where John purchased land at Rehoboth, later named Cumberland, R. I. Here he died in 1684.

John Bartlett left a large estate, his inventors is in the records at Plymouth, Mass, and the family settlement of the property is filed in probate office Taunton, Mass., his children were John, Samuel, Jacob, Moses, Sarah and Mary.

Wm. Blackstone was the first known settler of Rhode Island, when John Bartlett fled from the Indians he settled Blackstone on Blackstone River.

John's children and several generations following were Friends, or Quakers. They established the Bartlett burying ground but there are few stones with inscriptions as the early Quakers did not believe in such ostentation.

Moses Bartlett, one of the sons was a strong temperance man and in 1725 put in one of his recorded deeds: "There shall be no house of entertainment, nor any strong drinks sold upon the premises forever". This at the time when nearly all men used alcohol shows his force of character and independence. This independence however finally got him into trouble with the straight laced Quakers who looked with holy horror on his new ideas and "new departure" from their line of thinking and in 1741 he was excommunicated.

Job Bartlett, son of John(2) was the first town clerk of Cumberland, later its first representative. He was a member of the Rhode Island legislature for four years.

When the town of Cumberland was incorporated its prominent offices were filled with persons named Bartlett. These town records stand today as samples of system, accuracy and care in all transactions.

Samuel Bartlett was first treasurer of Cumberland and also served in the Legislature. He was a manufacturer of farm tools, and iron worker and blacksmith. His farm machinery, scythes, axes, hoes, forks, shovels, found their market in New York, Boston, Providence and over New England.

Joseph, grandson of John lived about a mile outside of Providence. He and his wife were earnest, devout, pious Quakers and "took great pains with the religious education of his children".

On one of the old Bartlett farms near Providence there are now three cotton factories and their villages of about one thousand workers.

For the above facts on the Quaker Bartletts we are indebted to Thomas Edward Bartlett, a direct descendant of John, the Rhode Island pioneer. Mr. Bartlett published a history of the Rhode Island Bartletts about forty years ago that is interesting reading.

Others of the Name.
By Thomas Edward Bartlett.

The following list of Bartletts who had arrived in this country previous to 1700, all of which are presumed to have emigrated from England, has been obtained from original statistics.

Robert, arrived in Plymouth, Mass., in the ship Ann, 1623, three years after the landing of the Pilgrims. He d. 1676, aged 73. His descendants are very numerous.

Richard, arrived with his family at Newbury, Mass., before 1635. He d. in 1647, age about 72, and left many descendants. One of his sons, John Bartlett, has been erroneously stated by one writer to be a brother.

John, was in New Port, R. I., and admitted to the town in 1638. He may be the same who was at Windsor, Conn., in 1640.

John, of Windsor, Conn., was there before 1640 and left descendants. He was a brother of George, of Guilford, Conn.

George, of Guilford, Conn., brother of John, of Windsor, was at Guilford in 1641, and after 1649, of Brantford, Conn. He d. in 1669, and left many descendants.

Robert, of Hartford, Conn. Said to have been of Cambridge, Mass., in 1632. Was at Hartford in 1640; removed to Northampton, Mass., in 1665 and was there killed by the Indians in 1676. There are many of his descendants.

Joseph, of Cambridge and Newton, Mass., was at Cambridge about 1666. He died in Newton in 1702. Many descendants.

Benjamin, of Brookfield, Mass., was there before 1700. He had a wife Mary, and numerous descendants. His daughter Mary, b. May 1701, was the first recorded birth in the Brookfield records.

Henry, was at Marlborough, Mass., in 1680 and has many descendants.

Bartlett Family Notes.

The Bartletts who came to this country were Puritans, most of them strict Calvinists.

Over 70 Bartletts are on the U.S. Pension Rolls who served in the Revolution, War of 1812, and war with Mexico. The official register of the Federal Army officers of the Civil War list 86 Bartletts, and it is presumed there was a proportionate number in the navy.

Major Bartlett, who was murdered in Africa while seeking Stanley, was the eldest son of Sir Walter Bartelot of England.

The Bartlett Pear was first grown, or originated, in Haverhill, Mass., by Enoch Bartlett, who exhibited the fruit, without name, to Horticultural Society who named it the Bartlett Pear, in 1821.

John Bartlett, of England, came to Beverly, Massachusetts in 1637, his son Thomas settled in Dedham, Massachusetts in 1636.

Robert Bartlett came to America in 1632--settled first at Cambridge, Mass., but soon left for Connecticut. Robert was one of the seven men who founded Hartford, Conn. His name is on a large stone monument in the center of the first church yard in Hartford. In 1655 he settled in Northampton, Mass., his house was the first inside the gate of the stockade fort, he was the gate-keeper. He was killed by the Indians in 1676 in a battle with King Phillip. His brother was also killed by the Indians.

Biography of Wright Bartlett.

Born at Waterboro, New York on September 10th, 1847. Son of Lawrence Shuler Bartlett and Julia Grover Bartlett Waterboro, long since disappeared, was at that time a little village on the Connewango River a few miles north of Jamestown in Chataqua County. Shuler Bartlett operated the Waterboro hotel, or tavern. When Wright was about ten years of age his mother Julia Grover Bartlett placed him in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marshal Root at Poland, N. Y., a few miles from Waterboro. Julia did not like the tavern business and thought it was no place for the bringing up of children, so she arranged with the Roots who had no children to take Wright as their own child.

The Roots were a kindly couple, refined, educated, with a good home and a good farm close to school and church. They were earnest Christians of sterling integrity and gave young Wright an early training in Bible study and Christian example and living that built into his life a stalwart Christian character.

Wright's Christian training and education made him a leader in Christian endeavor in every community and town in which he lived. Seth Grover, father of Julia, grandfather of Wright was a staunch Christian of strong character. His influence and example was also beneficial to young Wright, but greater than these was the Godly influence of his dearly beloved mother.

At about 16 years of age Wright decided to quit the farm and to start out for himself. He secured work with a cattle buyer, or drover, and was soon on his way to Philadelphia with a herd of cattle driven on foot overland from western New York, across rivers and mountains, through fords and woods for hundreds of miles to Philadelphia. It was about a months trip as the cattle must be fed on roadside pastures as they traveled along and progress was necessarily slow.

Petroleum was discovered about this time in Western Pennsylvania and young Wright was soon busy in the oil fields as a well driller. He worked in the oil district for about five years, drilling at Titusville, Pithole, Petroleum Center, Pleasantville and Houseville.

During this time Wright's father and his older brother Byron had gone to the Michigan wilds to prospect for pine. Young Wright gave up the oil business for the lure of the pine woods. On Lake Huron was located one of the finest bodies of pine in Michigan, with cheap water transportation and a growing market at Detroit and Buffalo.

Wright was soon busy in shingle "weaving" then in saw-milling at Center Harbor, Michigan, a "pine" town located two miles south of what is now Harbor Beach. Center Harbor in 1860 to 1871 was a busy saw mill town, with hotel, stores, schools, stage lines, dam, mill pond, thousands of logs, piles of lumber, boats loading and saws humming. A typical frontier, pinewoods town.

Horace Osterhout ran the boarding house in Center Harbor and was a sawyer in the mill. Young Wright was a boarder at Osterhouts. "Millie", Famelia Ellwood, the new school teacher from Detroit was also a boarder. "Hod" Osterhout was her uncle. It was not long before Wright and "Millie" were fast friends and after school was out "Millie" returned to her home, Wright soon followed and persuaded her to change her name to Bartlett, August 16, 1870.

Wright took his bride to Randolph, New York to live and again took up oil pumping, but after a few months quit the business and returned to Michigan.

The big forest fire of 1871 destroyed the town of Center Harbor, it was never rebuilt. Wright bought a farm fronting on Lake Huron, four miles south of Sand Beach. Here on a hill overlooking the lake he built a home in which he lived for ten years, farming summers and teaching school winters.

In 1881 another great fire swept over Eastern Michigan. Byron and Seth Bartlett, brothers of Wright, lived five miles back in the country, Julia the mother was living at Seth Bartletts. With the suffocating smoke of the burning woods came inky blackness--Wright on horseback rushed to the rescue of his mother and to help the brothers and their families to escape. Seth loaded his family and mother onto a hay wagon and started for the "Beach", Byron loaded wife and six children into a single buggy. Wright led the procession through the thick darkness with a lantern. In places the woods were afire on both sides of the road but all escaped to Wright's farm on the banks of Lake Huron. Seth's house, barn and crops were all destroyed and his neighbor, Mr. Sarniac, was burned to death as were many others in the county. Byron's barn and crops were burned, but his house, though surrounded by fire did not burn.

After the fire of 1881 Wright moved to Sand Beach and built a home on the State Road, one mile west of town. The relief stores sent by the nation for the fire sufferers were placed in charge of Wright Bartlett for distribution. His books were kept with every detail of distribution and his accuracy, kindness and care for the suffering was warmly commended by state officers.

Wright was for ten years with the Jenks Grocery Co., of Harbor Beach in charge of sales. During this ten years he was the leading spirit and support of the Free Methodist Church of Harbor Beach. Wright was the president of the school board for many years. His five children graduated at Harbor Beach then were sent to college and each graduated from some state school.

In 1895 Wright retired from active business and moved to Jackson, Michigan where his son James was in the grain business and for many years he has made his summer home in Jackson and spent his winters on his orange grove in Fort Ogden, Florida.

In 1930 Mr. and Mrs. Bartlett, although considerably past eighty years of age, journeyed from Florida to Minneapolis and returned. The occasion of their trip was to celebrate, at their daughter Julius home in Minneapolis, their 60th wedding anniversary. They are both living, July 1931, in Ft. Ogden Florida and in good health. Their children, James, Lucy, Julia and Hiram are recorded with their families in the Laron Bartlett book.

Byron Bartlett.

Born at Cherry Creek, New York, January 31, 1840. Died at Jamestown, N. Y., Dec. 24, 1924. He was son of Lawrence Shuler Bartlett and Julia Grover Bartlett. He married July 14, 1861 to Hannah Jane Smith of Flint, Mich. She was born Aug. 4, 1840, died April 5, 1913.

"Bye", as he was known to all his friends, was a large, powerful man, full of fun, good natured, always joking, "a friend of everybody and everybodys friend".

"Bye" was born in the timber business, his father was at that time sawmilling, rafting logs and lumber down the Connewango, Alleghany and Ohio rivers to St. Louis. Bye followed his father's trail, he pioneered with his father to the wilds of Michigan. There were Indians every where and plenty of hardships, provisions must be packed many miles on the backs of the pioneers, wolves howled around the cabins. Bye enjoyed the life, thriving physically and prospered financially.

After his marriage he lived at Forestville, Michigan and at Sand Beach, later he lived in Port Huron where he was interested in a carriage factory. Later he moved to Fort Worth, Texas and sold his factory products over the Southwest. After a few years in the carriage business "Bye" sold out and moved to western New York.

Once more answering the "Call of the Wild" Bye purchased a tract of hardwood timber in the Alleghany mountains. He put in a saw mill on "South Mountain" and here again he enjoyed the delights of the woods, the falling of the trees, skidding logs down the mountains, the buzz of the saws and the sweet odors of the freshly cut timber. Bye was busy and happy. This paradise could not last forever, in two years the timber was gone and the land was sold and Bye moved to Jamestown, invested in city property and retired on "Easy Street" financially.

Bye had many sidelines in business, one of these was a brick plant at Jackson, Michigan, a new patented, sand lime brick caught his fancy in 1904 and Byron assisted in the promotion of a company and in building a factory. As plant manager he was successful in turning out a fine quality brick, but the plant burned after a few days of operation and Byron returned to Jamestown, he had made no money but he enjoyed the activity and the gamble. Byrons children and family are listed on a seperate page.

The following editorial appeared in the Little Valley Hub in Chautauqua County, New York in 1909:

"Here's a little item to add uneasiness to the 'rolling stones.'" I have a young friend in Jamestown (Byron Bartlett, aged 69) who has moved 72 times since his marriage, has raised to manhood and womanhood a family of eight children, and today is hale, hearty and rich, and I suppose planning his next drift. This man has been in every nook and corner of the United States, and the broadening education has developed him into a man who if set down among the man eaters of South Africa would in six months have them working like a bunch of Dagos, building a railroad to the coast. The Bartlett uneasiness made a broad, resourceful, capable man of "By" Bartlett. It rolled off the moss from his head and accumulated it in his pocket."

Lucy Bartlett Bagg.

Daughter of Lawrence Shuler Bartlett and Julia Grover Bartlett, was born in the little village of Waterbora, Chautauqua County, New York on August 14, 1845.

Lucy married William Bagg, son of Allen Bagg and Jane Luce Bagg who came to Ellington, N. Y. in 1835. William Bagg and Lucy Bartlett Bagg lived for many years on their fine farm in the Alleghany Mountains close to the Alleghany River a few miles from Randolph, New York.

Henry Bagg, son of Wm. and Lucy was a successful business man, he operated a spoke factory in northern Pennsylvania of some years. Henry died in _____ leaving a wife and children whose names will be listed later. Ida Bagg, daughter of Wm. and Lucy married Willis Bartlett, son of Byron. Ida Bagg's family is listed under Willis Bartlett heading. Eda Bagg, daughter of Wm. and Lucy married and lives in Central New York, her family will be listed on later pages.

Grover Family.

Seth Grover came to Cherry Creek, N. Y. from Silver Creek, where he had a fine home and was in the fur business. Youngs History of Chataugus County says, "The first merchant in Cherry Creek was Seth Grover who, in 1831, also had in connection with his store a potash and pearl asherie". (P. 289). It also states he built the first frame house in that section of the state. Aaron Bartlett was the first postmaster. Seth Grover was known as a very fine man. The Cherry Creek Centennial History says:

Seth Grover, Cherry Creek's first merchant, who opened his place of business in 1831, was a man of uncommon ability, Yankee enterprise and shrewdness. It is said that when he came here he was a Whig, but soon changed his politics for the sake of being Post-master. He was a man of liberaltiy, popular and well liked. Seth Grover was born in 1800 and died Dec. 17, 1856. The first frame house in the County was built in 1830 and occupied by Seth Grover. He was Justice of Peace in Cherry Creek in 1835.

Some Descendants of

JOHN BARTLETT OF CHERRINGTON, ENG.

As reported by Lucius W. Bartlett of Hartford, Conn., who was for many years Historian of the Society of the Descendants of Robert Bartlett.

John (1) of Cherrington, Warwick County, England

Robert (2)

Robert (3) at Cambridge, Mass., 1632.

LYON

Robert Bartlett came from England in the ship Cyon which, on Sept. 16, 1632, landed at Boston Harbor. 122 passengers. Robert Bartlett located in Cambridge and in 1639 migrated with the Hookes band to Hartford, Conn. There he was elected the first selectman of the village. In the division of lands of that year was granted eight acres, residing west of the present Lafayette Street. He was made Freeman April 10, 1645. In 1655 he moved with twenty others to a tract of land in Northampton, Mass., which they bought from the Indians. He owned land at Hartford as late as 1664. He was first selectman at Northampton. He was killed by the Indians in King Phillips War, March 14, 1676. His widow Anna died July 3, 1676. (That he was buried in front of his house is very likely true.)

Robert and Anna's four children were Samuel 2, born in Cambridge, Mass., 1639, Nathaniel 2, who died unmarried, Abigail 2, who married John Stebbins of Northampton, Mass., and Deborah 2, born March 8, 1646, Samuel Bartlett 2, born 1639, removed with his parents to Northampton, where he formed and operated a grist mill in the southern part of that city, residing on Bartlett Street, more recently called Pleasant Street. He died in 1712 and was buried in Northampton.

Samuel Bartlett 2, married in Northampton, Mary, daughter of James Bridgman. She died in 1674 leaving no children.

Samuel 2, married 2nd Sarah, daughter of Joseph Baldwin, who bore him the following children:

Samuel Bartlett 3, born 1677; Sarah 3, born 1679; Mindwell 3, born 1681; Joseph 3, born 1683; Ebenezer 3, born 1685; Elizabeth 3, born 1687; Preserved 3, born 1689; William 3, born 1693; David 3, born 1695; Benjamin 3, born 1696.

Samuel Bartlett 3, born 1677, removed in 1723 with his wife Sarah, and family as an original proprietor of Bolton, Tolland County, Conn. His children were:

Samuel Bartlett 4, born 1714, Johnathan 4, born 1716, Eleanor 4 died in 1795 at Bolton, Eunice 4, born 1720, died Feb.7, 1725. She was the first white person buried in the North Bolton Cemetery.

Captain Johnathan Bartlett 4, born 1716, went with his parents to Bolton, Conn. and when a young man removed to East Windsor, Conn. He married Jan.26, 1743, Hannah, widow of John Bissell. She was daughter of Ebeneszer and Abigail(Kelsey)Watson, of East Windsor

Samuel Bartlett 5, son of Johnathan 4, born 1744, married Ann Crane, of East Windsor, Sept.14, 1767. He was a farmer and died at East Windsor, Nov.29, 1825, age 81. Johnathan Bartlett 6, born 1769, married Margaret Harper.

Joseph Samuel Bartlett 7, born April 10, 1804, married Nov. 15, 1833, Emeline Strong, and had Joseph Loomis Bartlett 8, born March 11, 1835

RICHARD BARTLETT OF NEWBURY, MASS.

Richard of Newbury had many descendants who settled in Maine and New Hampshire. Josiah Bartlett, signer of the Declaration of Independence, was a descendant of Richard. Prof. Moses Willard Bartlett of Waterloo, Iowa, was born in Bath, New Hampshire in 1834, and was a descendant of John 1, of Newbury. He wrote me in 1900 his line as follows:

John Bartlett 1, John 2, Gideon 3, John 4, Gideon 5, Stephen 6, Amos 7, Stephen N. 8, Moses Willard 8. Your father may have been a descendant of Robert through his son Benjamin 2 of Duxbury or any one of the others mentioned.
